For seventeen-year-old Lena, living in the trailer park with the rest of town's throwaways isn't exactly paradise. Dealing with a drunken father who can't keep his fists to himself doesn't help matters either. The only good thing in her life, other than track, is the mysterious man who visits her dreams, promising to find her. When a chair burns her arms, Lena chalks it up to stress-induced crazy. Yet as bizarre incidents escalate, even being crazy can't explain it all away... until one day dream guy does find her. Tarek lost Lena seventeen years ago after she was accused of treason and marked Tainted. He finally discovers her reborn on Earth into a life of suffering as punishment for her crime. However, someone else has already found her... and wants her dead.

Willing to sacrifice everything, he fights to keep her safe so she can live the only life she's ever known-even if that life doesn't include him.

As today's college students begin down the complex path toward life after college, their highly involved parents often struggle with the conflicting--yet understandable--feelings of wanting to be helpful on the one hand but not knowing how to be helpful on the other. What exactly should students be doing during college ... and why ... and how? And what role can--or should--parents play in this process? The ideal role is that of coach--knowledgeable advisor, trusted sounding board, and skilled teacher. College parents will learn how to become just that with The College to Career Road Map: A Four-Year Guide to Coaching Your Student. Like the student version of The College to Career Road Map, this innovative parent version outlines the essential academic and experiential activities students should pursue during each of their years in college. But it's more than a mere laundry list, for it also teaches parents how to cultivate critical thinking and independence in their students--so that the students themselves ultimately do the difficult but necessary work of finding a satisfying, successful path after college.

The Final Book In The Divinity Saga The Earth is breaking open. The wall between the Spirit and Human realm has begun to shatter, allowing darkness to seep in and converge like an epidemic. The End Has Begun... Even after setting everything in motion by attacking Morning Star first, Cam`ael finally has everything that he's ever wanted in his existence; Starling's love and a family. Cam`ael's happiness is short-lived when he's finally given the harsh and inexplicable truth about why Starling has always been such a unique Chosen. A Fiery Will... Shortly after giving birth, Starling
